TREES

Quarrymill is a mixed species woodland of 27 acres on the Annaty Burn where ancient semi-natural woodland exists beside veteran trees. Riparian wood, i.e. a forest or woodland area adjacent to water, sits along the burn's banks, while conifer and deciduous stands cover sloped ground and flatter bank areas. Quarrymill lies near to Scone Palace, which is included in the Inventory of Gardens and Designed Landscapes.

WILDLIFE

Quarrymill's woodlands are home to an abundance of wildlife, including roe deer, red squirrels, hedgehogs, moles, rabbits, and bats plus numerous bird species, and wildflowers that feature throughout the seasons.

HISTORY

Quarrymill forms part of the estate that was gifted to The Gannochy Trust by A K Bell in 1937 for the benefits of the local community. 'Scone Den' as it was once called has a long and illustrious history. It was once home to mills that spun cotton and extracted starch for the textile industry. The quarry that lies at the heart of the park once provided stone for the construction of many local landmarks, bridges and buildings.

Quarrymill Woodland Park features a range of facilities, including accessible paths; viewing platforms; seating areas; picnicking and barbeque facilities; and the Macmillan Coffee and Giftshop.

All cyclists and mountain bikers should behave responsibly. Please dismount on narrow paths and where there is risk to people or wildlife.

Flourishing woodland provides a rich habitat for all kinds of wildlife, from insects to birds. Help us preserve this beautiful place by following the Scottish Outdoor Access Code.

The Macmillan Coffee and Gift Shop offers delicious food and gifts. Find it at the Isla Road (A93) entrance to Quarrymill.

The Gannochy Trust

Founded in 1937 by Arthur Kinmond Bell, The Gannochy Trust provides almost 300 houses for rent; manages an estate of 700 acres, including farms and woodlands; and funds charities both in Perth and Kinross and across Scotland. The Trust owns and manages Quarrymill Woodland Park. www.gannochytrust.org.uk

A K BELL

Arthur Kinmond Bell was a gifted businessman, who developed the Bell's Whisky business and, in his later years, became an outstanding philanthropist. He built the original Gannochy housing estate in the 1920s and acquired Quarrymill for the benefit of the local community. A believer in the health-giving properties of exercise, fresh air and the outdoors, he instructed that Quarrymill be maintained as a "place of public resort". The Gannochy Trust aims to uphold these wishes to this day.

PERTSHIRE BIG TREE COUNTRY

The famous botanist and plant explorer, David Douglas, was born in Scone, near Quarrymill in 1799. He travelled to North America collecting seeds from trees, shrubs and herbs we are now familiar with in the UK, including his name's sake Douglas Fir. www.perthshirebigtreecountry.co.uk

Growing up with Quarrymill

Growing up with Quarrymill is a partnership project between RSPB Scotland and The Gannochy Trust. It aims to engage and connect local communities, children, young people, teachers, and families with the natural world at Quarrymill Woodland Park.

We provide varied, exciting, and challenging outdoor experiences for a range of age groups to discover, explore and learn about the local environment. Hands on and learner-led education inspires those who join us and instills a sense of ownership and connection to nature at Quarrymill.

For more information, upcoming events and sessions, and to get in touch, follow us on Facebook @GrowingUpWithQuarrymill.
